

New England Home Design Blog

Midwinter Meditations

December 27, 2011 New England Home

We've given our guest bloggers the week off so they can enjoy their holiday and New Year's celebrations in peace. Rather than leave faithful Tuesday readers in the lurch, though, we're taking today's post as an opportunity to share something special from our New England Home family.

Tria Giovan is one of the small crew of very talented people we hire to photograph homes for our magazines. But, like many energetic and creative folk, she has other facets to her life and work. One of those facets will soon be getting some extra notice.

This coming March will see the publication of Tria's new book, fruit of a ten-year meditation on a tiny stretch of Long Island waterfront. Here's a preview—please treat yourself to a few minutes of post-holiday quietness and soak in some of the many evocative moods a single special place can convey.

Sand Sea Sky: The Beaches of Sagaponack

By Tria Giovan

Damiani Editore: Italy

ISBN 978-88-6208-196-2

Release date: March 2012

All photos from Sand Sea Sky: The Beaches of Sagaponack, by Tria Giovan

Tags: art photography, beach photography, Damiani Editore, Sand Sea Sky: The Beaches of Sagaponack, Tria Giovan